Eldon S. Banta, Ohio State University extension horticulturist.
There are good reasons for doing this. First the few berries proplants the year they are set, says this. First the few berries produced will hardly be worth the oother of caring for them. The biggest advantage in blossom removal lies in the increased yield of large berries the following year, Banta says. This is be moved, a greater number of early cause: (1) when blossoms are re runner plants are formed, and (2), the mother plants develop more potential flowers in the early part of the flower formation period. Several tests of this practice in Ohio and elsewhere support the value of blossom remov al the first year.

When you build a quality truck, the inclination is to run around asking users what they think of it. We do quite a bit of this.

It's a funny thing. You'd think people would talk mostly about the mechanical features of the vehicle-the good ride, its power, the double-wall construction, cab comfort, or tough tailgate.

These things get comment, of course, but they're consistently outnumbered by expressions of satisfaction with the dependability of a Chevrolet truck. Its greatest single asset seems to be the fact that it does its job well day after day without a lot of fuss or attention-and that's what impresses people the most.

Quality is the key to reliability. The next time you have to buy a truck, call your Chevrolet dealer and make your money go farther.

Those Tax Relief Smiles

in a "stew" over high real estate taxes are smiling again because Common Pleas Judge John W. Ford has taken action to restrain the county treasurer from collecting second-half taxes.

It appears that all county taxpayers were overcharged, on the average, nine per cent. County officials had failed to reduce millage rates proportionately to the increase in property valuations following the re-

A suit filed by a taxpayer in behalf of the thousands who protested the reappraisal figures this past winter, many from persons in nearby Green and Goshen Townships, pointed out that failure to adjust the tax rates in harmony with the new property valuations would give the county an "esti-

Mahoning County taxpayers who have been mated excess of $2,500,000." A county prosecutor's suit is also pending, attacking the constitutionality of the state law which allowed the late county auditor Charles Rayburn to enter a $372,000 contract with Cole, Layer & Trumble Co. of Dayton to do the reappraising.

The vigorously-protested Mahoning property valuations have been watched with some concern by Salem district residents because by mid-1962 we will know the results of the Columbiana County reappraisal completed last summer.

It is entirely possible that the over-charge in Mahoning County would have been caught and rectified eventually, but we imagine that the Green Township trustees, for one, are glad they were among the first to complain. Their actions were justified.

Jackstraws In Southeast Asia

Military action in Southeast Asia is going to be hard to understand.

Remember the game of jackstraws some of us played when we were children?

Dozens of odd - shaped splinters were dumped in a pile and the game was to pull them out one at a time without disturbing

The straws with the oddest shapes scored the most, because they were the hardest ones to pull out.

The United States has a treaty right under the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization (SEATO) to land troops in Thailand, which was one of the eight signers of the treaty. But Thailand is not where the trouble is. The trouble is one country away in Laos. Or to be specific it is in Laos now because it was supposed to be two countries away. in South Viet Nam, and suddenly it was in neutral. The understanding was weak because it was with Communists, who never live up to any understanding if it ceases to serve their aims.

The United States had made a strong commitment to train the South Vietnamese to protect themselves against Communist aggression. Part of the background of this strong commitment was a weak understanding that Laos, where politicians cannot get together on a government, would be kept frustration.

It does not serve their aims to keep Laos neutral, though there is a suspicion it may not serve the aims of certain Laotian politicians either. Therefore, to protect its commitment in South Viet Nam, the United States is preparing to put ashore military units in Thailand, which is next door to Laos, which is next door to South Viet Nam. The fighting men it already has put ashore in South Viet Nam are not combat troops but "military advisers," though they bear arms and are instructed to shoot back.

On rare occasions it was possible to take apart a pile of jackstraws without a mishap. The game of military jackstraws in Southeast Asia does not shape up like a rare occasion. The news from and about Luang Prabang and about Boun Oum and Price Souphanouvong is certain to become a lot

Man's Inhumanity to Man

"Man's inhumanity to man," said Robert suit of some potential good. Certainly the Burns, "makes countless thousands mourn." He wrote the line in "Man Was Made To Mourn."

Man's mourning never came to a more dolorous climax than it has reached in Algeria, where man's inhumanity to man has outdone itself.

Tripped Up

The conviction of Dave Beck on charges of embezzlement in 1957 has been upheld by the U. S. Supreme Court. This may mean the end of the trail for the one-time president of the Teamsters Union.

The year 1957 could be known as the "year of the Cadillacs" in the Beck family. Father and son both ran afoul of paying for automobiles out of the wrong pocket.

It was vaguely reminiscent of the way other figures that have loomed large in the news over the years have been tripped up over relatively minor incidents. The Beck saga had been king-size in every detail. At a time when James R. Hoffa, who succeeded him later as head of the Teamsters was only the 9th vice president of the union, the biggest figure in unionism was the irrepressible and apparently untouchable Beck.

If it hadn't been for a few automobiles that turned up in the wrong places he and his namesake might never have been indicted. Like Hoffa, who has yet to be touched by the law, they might still be defying their critics to prove they ever had done anything wrong.

Once Over

This is the season when the miracle of the Resurrection is taking place in field and garden, in street and yard. Through leaf and bud has come the testament to the everlasting life.

The lilac in the shadow of an old barn has told overnight the deathless story more convincingly than preachers in great cathedrals throughout the ages.

The gnarled apple by the woodshed has removed doubt in the twinkling of an eye. Now from a back porch the stone is seen rolled away through a wondrous screen of dogwood, forsytia and cherry blossoms.

Death flames into life through daffodil and crocus, symbolizing "I am the life," where the hard, crusty earth made drab the scene for long winter months.

"He is not here; He is risen" is wafted on the soft breeze across hillsides.

In a patch of violets beside a battered fence is the message "Put in thy finger and be not faithless but believing." The tulip seems the chalice of the Last Supper. Through every greening leaf comes "A little while and ye shall not see Me; and again a little while and ye shall see Me." All winter the gaunt trees have been the symbol of Gethsemane. Bare shrubbery has been the narrator of the betrayal in the

They have no hope of changing the direction of events giving self-determination to the people of Africa. They have no hope of driving out the Moslems from Algeria. They carnot kill them all.

They are killing their fellowmen for the sake of killing and defying them to defend themselves on pain of being killed in even larger numbers.

There is no way to stop their vendetta. Their government and their church are power less to discipline them. They may pass along their feud from father to son, from mother to daughter. There is the possibility they may engender a hatred among Moslems that will make it impossible for any white men to feel secure in Algeria for generations to come. They could even start a holy way in the mid-20th Century.

Many have wondered what Burns had in mind. The explanation is provided in bloodbathed Algeria. Man's inhumanity to man is his ultimate and seemingly his eternal

As good a place as any to start is in the Mayflower Hotel dining room in Washington during the winter of early 1937.

With a grace more in keeping with a Shakespearean royal court than the lobbyists of the Mayflower, Lewis accepted an invitation to join the Taylors. He charmed them.

Not long afterwards Taylor called Lewis, U.S. Steel was in no mood, said Taylor, for fratricidal warfare. Could they talk? Soon Lewis and Taylor were conferring secretly in Washington and in Taylor's magnificent home in New York City.

Outside, an unknowing world waited tensely for the heavy assault on the big steel plants by Lewis' organizing legions.

IT NEVER CAME. Instead. on Feb. 25, or it could have been the 24, 1937 John Lewis dispatched message from his New York hotel to the late Sidney Hillman (of the men's clothing union), a force in the CIO.

There were messages, too, to the SWOC chairman, the late Philip Murray, and its counsel, Lee Pressman. Mr. Lewis told them to gather over in the nearby Essex House on Saturday.

They did. They waited. He came, after a while, directly from Myron Taylor's home. The mine chief, whose power as a labor leader has never been equalled. then reported that U.S. Steel would sign up.

Dear Ann Lnaders: I'm a boy 16 years old. Next month I am going on my first real date. It's a school dance and then a bunch of us kids are going to get some thing to eat in a restaurant.

I suppose you'll split your sides laughing, but I need to know the answer to this. When the waitress brings the hamburgers and French fries who takes the first bite, the boy or the girl? Thank you a lot.-FIRST DATE.

Dear Date: It doesn't matter who takes the first bite. The only thing to keep in mind is that the fellow isn't supposed to dive into his food until his date has her plate in front of her. You're welcome.

What Other Side?

Dear Ann: Why can't you see the other side Why not casionally sympathize with the "other woman" who gives up everything for the man she loves instead of always siding with the wife who can't hold her husband?

I've been going with a man for 10 years but his wife won't give him a divorce. He left her three years ago (for me) but she still hangs on. It's apparent that I'm the one he loves because I'm the one he takes on trips and buys gifts for.

She's not only a poor wife but a poor mother. She never has taught her children manners. When they see me with their father they don't speak to either of us. Wouldn't you think they'd have more respect for the man who supported and educated them?

Why can't people understand that a married man can fall out of love with a wife who has grown careless and dull? You are not only hard-hearted, Ann Landers, but hard-headed, as well .-HORSE'S MOUTH.

Dear Horse: I DO see the other side. I pity the "other woman" because she's a fool who must live always on the razor's edge. In the vast majority of cases she's providing some married man with kicks at tremendous personal sacrifice, while he enjoys the respectability of home and family.

The other woman eventually loses all opportunities for marriage. By the time she realizes Lover Boy is not going to put that piece of paper in her hand nobody else wants her. So you see. I can't endorse a setup which is immoral, illegal and public statement says Mr Holleman took a position opposite to time in America. Purely Personal

The grimmest thing that could happen to schools would be for angry taxpayers to destroy education over a revolt against an inequitable revenue system that penalizes property owners.

An associate has written the proper heading for a picture of President Kennedy if he ever stages a repeat performance of his tirade against the steel companies: "Jack of All Tirades."

I feel like saying about the safety theme in airplane advertising what I said about the sanitation theme in milk advertising - that anyone foolish enough to use it deserves to be hurt by the doubt it plants in the customers' minds. Every time I write the name course, to avoid political embar-

in politics for a long time. He was president of the Federation of Labor in Texas. Unhappily, the ways of politics develope customs which are condoned but which have their roots in a jaundiced view of what is ethical or unethical. Thus. Mr. Holleman apparently saw nothing wrong in the suggestion that Mr. Estes pay the expense of a dinner that was given by Secretary of Labor Goldberg last January in Washington in honor of Vice President Lyndon Johson.

Mr. Goldberg sensed the impropriety immediately, however, and insisted on paying for the dinner himself. Mr. Holleman would never have suggested it if he hadn't been accustomed to the ways of politics.

But, in the matter of gifts. where shall the line be drawn? Is it unethical for anybody connected with our government or a member of his family to accept presents of value from high officials of foreign governments which are anxious either to receive or to continue to receive American millions out of the "foreign aid" program?

Does it make the giving of the gifts immune from criticism just because in some cases the acceptance is formally sanctioned?

What shall be said, moreover, of some of the donors who finance the $100-a-plate political dinners to pay campaign deficits? Many of those who buy a lot of tickes are engaged in business transactions with the government. As individuals, they put up hundreds of thousands of dollars a year to help one political party or the other. Persons close to the administration do the soliciting of the money for the tickets. Do the donohs buy these tickets wholly from an altruistic and philanthropic motive? President Kennedy has attended several of these $100-a-plate dinners in various parts of the country, and so has former President Eisenhower. Congress is never very enthusiastic about investigating contacts between its own members and large organizations in business or in labor which are vitally interested in legislation or, even more, in the decisions that come from the numerous executive departments and agencies of the government. The fact remains that the basic cause of improprieties, indiscretions and unethical conduct in relations between the governmet and its citizens can be traced to the low concept of political morality that has prevailed for a long

Bunker Hill Church Banquet Well - Attended

The 91 mothers and daughters present for the recent banquet at the Bunker Hill Methodist Church were arranged at their tables according to birthdays with decorations taking their themes from special occasions of the months.

Mothers honored for all-boy or all-girl families were Mrs. Ray Stanley and Mrs. Norman Summers, four daughters each; Mrs. Willard Close, three daughters; and Mrs. Robert Biery, four sons. Gifts also went to the youngest daughter present, Lynn Maurer, who will be 2 in June, and to the oldest mother, Mrs. Stanley How-

Mrs. Ralph Fotia had charge of the program. Pianist was Mrs. Willard Headland. A welcome was given by Mrs. Robert Maurer, president of the Women's Society of Christian Service, followed by a prayer by Mrs. Summers. The scripture was read by Mrs. Charles Conkle. The toast to the mothers was presented by Miriam Coleman and the toast to the daughters by her mother, Mrs. Sarah Coleman.

The history of Mother's Day was given by Mrs. Graden Cook. Instrumental music was supplied by Nancy Hutcheson and Janis and Judy Reichart.

Facts were given about each month with music interwoven. A duet for the month of April was sung by Cheryl Maurer and Mrs. Chester Lucas, "I'm Always Chasing Rainbows". For March Jeannine Cook played "My Wild Irish Rose" on the bells. For June Mrs. Summers, Mrs. Robert Bailey, Mrs. Biery, Mrs. Richard Maurer, Mrs. Lucas, Mrs. Robert Maurer and Cheryl Maurer sang "Oh, Perfect Love". You no longer have to do your shopping during lunch hours or on Saturdays. One of the fringe benefits of modern office life now is that you can shop leisurely on company time without leaving our desk.

Seated comfortably in your swivel chair you can purchase anything from a grand piano to a stuffed polar bear.

This is because every office emplove today seems to be a parttime salesman. The hired hands spend half their working time buying something from or selling something to each other.

A word from

Old Country Store

The Salem J. C.'s used my Ford Covered Wagon Truck in the parade in Cleveland last week when they attended the convention. That Covered Wagon really gets around. We have had pictures of it in five magazines. They ran into one fellow who said he was coming down to visit our place. Anyone who had such an unusual truck must operate an unusual store. It is known as Ohio's most interesting and unusual.

One daughter, Mrs. Flora Mae Deckert, has taught junior high school 12 years in Columbus. Flora's husband is also a Columbus teacher. Mrs. Wollam's vounger daughter, Mrs. Shirley Prokop, was a 4-H leader in New Jersey before her marriage. Her son, Joseph, is studying agriculture at Ohio State University.

MRS. WOLLAM has been an inspiration to other teachers in the system, especially the newer ones. Many of them look to her for counsel on the details that make the difference between classroom efficiency and disord -

Her skill as an adviser has been wisely employed in her post as dean of girls, although her primary duty is teaching math to 176 pupils in seventh, and eighth grades. She is also librarian.

One of her main gratifications as a teacher is watching children grow in mental stature. She has an intuition about promising young pupils. Several years ago she had an intense lad in her classroom whose eyes were glued to her face when she lectured. "Someday that boy will be valedictorian of his class", she pre-
